Increasing complexity of business relationships

In our complex, globalized and digitized world, companies are forced to interact with an increasing number of business partners. At the same time, business relations are more intricate than ever due to changing regulatory requirements. Furthermore, public pressure demanding transparency surges, putting companies in the position of having to carefully manage their business partners. In this environment, integrity matters more than ever. Overall, an insufficient business partner management results in an unnecessarily high business risk as well as immensely high administrative costs.

Complex legal and regulatory framework requires flexibility and continuous adaptability

Lack of integration into the existing IT landscape and a low level of automation result in rising administrative costs

Breaches of rules by business partners result in financial damage and loss of reputation
